Figurative Language Worksheets. Figurative language worksheets: Figurative language refers to words that go beyond the usual meaning of literal words, and exaggerates and alters words to provide extra layers of meaning. In other words, figurative language is a way of writing and speaking that links separate ideas together in an interesting way. I recently heard an excellent example of ...

Teaching Inference. So an important question is, what is the best method of teaching inference to children with language difficulty? Apart from generally improving a student's vocabulary and world knowledge, a good way to improve inference skills is to ask prediction questions. The student could read a passage from a book and then asked what may happen next and why.

Anthropomorphism, also referred to as personification, is a well established literary device from ancient times. The story of "The Hawk and the Nightingale" in Hesiod's Works and Days preceded Aesop's fables by centuries. Collections of linked fables from India, the Jataka Tales and Panchatantra, also employ anthropomorphized animals to illustrate principles of life.

"Can't we just use spell checkers?" Abstract: The importance of spelling has been questioned in recent years, as word processing programs are equipped with spell checkers, and some educational reformists have suggested that focusing on spelling holds back the creative processes of writing and that students will naturally develop spelling skills through reading.
