The bench top fume hoods for SPB systems are the right choice for trace-metal digestions. Made from clear, acid resistant polycarbonate with a solid surface material base, the fume hood eliminates the risk of trace-metal contamination common with traditional fume hoods.

Quality Assurance and Control. Sampling and sample preparation are the most critical processes contributing to the overall uncertainty budget. The methods and quality measures employed for sampling have been discussed earlier in this volume (see Chapter "Sampling").

The Reykjanes Peninsula of Iceland is an ideal location for studying the generation and evolution of oceanic basalts because primitive lavas are highly abundant (Jakobsson et al., 1978; Thirlwall et al., 2004). The Háleyjabunga lava shield and Stapafell table mountain in the Reykjanes-Svartsengi volcanic system at the south-western tip of the peninsula (Fig. 1a) have proven to be especially ...

Isotope dilution: Isotope dilution, radiochemical method of analysis for measuring the mass and quantity of an element in a substance. The procedure involves adding to a substance a known quantity of a radioisotope of the element to be measured and mixing it with the stable isotope of the element. A sample is then Laser Induced Breakdown Spectroscopy (LIBS) is a rapid chemical analysis technology that uses a short laser pulse to create a micro-plasma on the sample surface. This analytical technique offers many compelling advantages compared to other elemental analysis techniques.
