The Little Skunk

Skunks are funny and amusing animals that have a bad reputation for their odor and destructive behaviors. These mammals have an amazing memory, more so when it comes to food, and they often are found to be guilty of repeat offenses that give them the bad press.

"Dead Skunk" is a 1972 novelty song by Loudon Wainwright III. The song is musically a simple folk song based on acoustic guitar, but accompanied by drums and strings. The lyrics describe a dead skunk in the middle of a busy road and the smell it produces for pedestrians. Wainwright has said that the song came out of an actual accident involving a skunk, and that he wrote it afterward in 15 minutes.

The striped skunk is easily identified by the white stripe that runs from its head to its tail. Its stripes start with a triangle at the head and break into two stripes down its back. The stripes usually meet again and form one stripe at the base of their tail. Their tails are usually a mixture of white and black fur. Each striped skunk has a unique stripe pattern.
